

Seeking Cell Phone Donations

The Beaverton Police Department has partnered with the 911 Cell Phone Bank and is now accepting donations of cell phones to benefit victims of domestic violence, sexual assault, stalking, human trafficking and other unsafe situations.

Cell phones—even without a service plan—may still be able to call 911 in the event of an emergency. These emergency 911 cell phones are an important part of overall safety plans for individuals who may need help and cannot get to any other phone. They provide a critical link between a person in an unsafe situation and law enforcement/emergency services.

Cell phone donations can be dropped off at:
Beaverton Police Department-2nd Floor/Police Administration
4755 SW Griffith Drive, Beaverton, OR 97005
Donations are accepted Monday-Friday, 8:00 AM-5:00 PM

There is no need to include car chargers, accessories, or the operating manual. Phones will be cleared of all personal information. Cell phones that are not working or unable to dial 911 are recycled according to EPA standards.

Questions? Please contact Katrina Rodriguez, Victim Services Coordinator, at krdriguez@beavertonoregon.gov or 503.526.2205.

Are you someone who has safety concerns due to domestic violence, sexual assault, stalking, human trafficking, or another unsafe situation?

If so, an emergency 911 cell phone may be an important part of your overall safety plan.

Free 911 cell phones are available at the Beaverton Police Department.

Call Victim Services at 503-526-2205 for more information.

You do not need to file a police report to access this program.
